

Security Products Announces 2013 Security Products' Govies Government Security Award Winners

Dallas, Texas, April 15, 2013 - Security Products magazine, the only integrated product and technology magazine reaching the entire security market, announced the winners in the 2013 Security Products' Govies Government Security award competition today. The awards honor outstanding government security products in a variety of categories.

The Security Products' Government Security Awards were launched in 2009 and re-launched as The Govies in 2011. Participation in this year's program was up 21% over 2012, with 64 entries. The winning entries earn the opportunity to display their products in the Govies booth at the annual GovSec Conference & Expo, which will be held May 13-15 at the Walter E. Washington Convention Center in Washington, D.C.

“The Govies are a young product awards contest considering all contests that are available, but this year’s entries are mature products that fully make a difference in government security,” said Ralph C. Jensen, editor-in-chief of Security Products magazine and content director of GovSec. “The technology and experience that proliferates the security industry is both dynamic and an assured commitment on the part of the manufacturers to provide a more secure world.”

In addition to being honored at GovSec, the winners will be featured on the Security Products website, security-today.com, and highlighted in a future issue of Security Products magazine. The magazine is distributed to more than 65,000* subscribers monthly as well as at trade events including GovSec.
