

Modern, tactile and long-lasting –
EAO Series 04 illuminated selector switches.

Olten, Switzerland, December 2016 – EAO, the expert partner for Human Machine Interfaces (HMIs), offers tactile, long-lasting illuminated selector switches that are ideal for the challenging conditions often found within transportation applications. With single or bi-colour LED illumination, these Series 04 illuminated selector switches enhance operating safety in the driver's cab and on the control panel by way of intuitively quick, visual recognition.

Bright LED illumination is clearly visible in daytime scenarios that feature strong sunlight as well as in low-light conditions. The easily identifiable switch positions also enable safe and intuitive operation. Combined with EAO Value Added Services that can include panel fitting, wiring assemblies and marking capabilities, easy installation and intuitive operation are possible for just about any application offered.

Advantages

- Bright, single or bi-colour LED illumination
- Modern, ergonomic design
- Rounded edges (in accordance with DIN 5566-1)
- Excellent tactile feedback
- Long service life and robust construction
- Wide range of possible combinations and options

These actuators are available in round or square shapes and with raised or flush designs. They also offer the option of a short or long lever. Optional LED illumination in red, green, blue, yellow or white is offered, and all colour variants are available with operating voltages of 6 VDC to 230 VAC.
