

Counterfeit Parts Risk Mitigation

In an era of vast and rapid globalization, a growing concern among those in the Aerospace and Defense electronics community is the proliferation of counterfeit materials within the supply chain. Falcon Electronics, Inc. recognizes this concern and is committed to protecting our customers from unnecessary loss due to the procurement of material whose origin cannot be determined. As an AS9120 and ISO9001:2008 registered entity, quality, both in service and material is our primary focus. Our supply chain includes only our authorized manufacturers and authorized distributors of other manufacturers. All product procured within this framework will be backed by full traceability to the original components manufacturer negating any possibility for counterfeit material to reach our valued customers.